RIGID ADHESIVE TAPE

Traditional approach to providing joint support, be it for injury prevention or injury management. Used when there is a need to restrict the range of motion of a given joint; most commonly ankles.

Porous tape is manufactured in a manner which facilitates breathability without compromising strength. Sweat vapor moves through the tape which provides greater comfort, especially to those with sensitive skin.

Non porous tape is the traditional approach to tape, where the adhesive coats the entirety of the tape surface.

ANKLE BRACES & SUPPORTS

The most common sports injury in the US is the ankle injury. In almost every sport across the board, from basketball to tennis, about 30% of injuries involve the ankle. Typically, the injury involves some forced lateral movement, most often when landing from a jump or when strafing. Proper ankle supports are useful in both preventing injuries like these and in allowing athletes to perform while recovering from an ankle injury.

THINGS TO CONSIDER WHEN CHOOSING AN ANKLE BRACE

- 1 You don't want a brace with laces that are too short or too long so you can tie them correctly.
- 2 Make sure a brace fits well. There shouldn't be any gaps between your skin and your brace.
- 3 For treatment or rehabilitative purposes, wear your ankle brace during everyday activities.
- 4 For preventative reasons, wear your brace when engaging in sports involving lateral movements.

It's important to choose an ankle brace that offers the best stability needed for your activities.

ANKLE SUPPORTS

These are the simplest type of ankle braces. They provide the least support for activities such as light jogging and walking. However, they are ineffective for intense activities, although they do help in reducing inflammation as the result of injuries.

RIGID ANKLE BRACES

These braces come in either stirrup or lace-up styles. A stirrup brace, which provides the most protection, lets you move up and down while protecting your ankle from rolling either in or out. These braces are built of a rigid structure that contain plastic panels to protect your ankle from inversion and eversion. A gel or air filled cushion may be part of the brace to help provide comfort to injured ankle.

PATENTED

TRIAXIAL HINGE

Single axis and polycentric hinges were designed prior to research that measured the geometric characteristics of knee motion. All other hinges, regardless of misleading names like “multi-centric”, are still simple single axis or double axis hinges which are proven to promote a mechanical mismatch that induces brace migration.

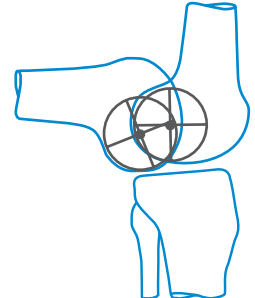

NEAR-NORMAL HINGE MOVEMENT

A functional knee brace must produce near-normal joint motion with minimal restrictions. These criteria may be obvious, but clearly many ACL braces fail to meet them.

SHIFT

The posterior shift of the instant center of the knee (I to II). The corresponding femur-tibial contact point.

DISPLACEMENT

Posterior displacement of the sphere centers on the femoral condyles.

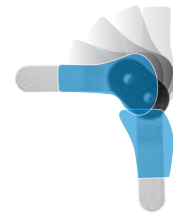

COMPARISON OF BRACE HINGE DESIGN

The simplistic movement of single axis and polycentric hinges are incompatible with the complex motion generated by the knee.

SINGLE AXIS HINGE

Hinge design is fixed at the center pivot and exhibits no posterior displacement.

BIAXIAL HINGE

Two centers of rotation allow only minimal posterior displacement.

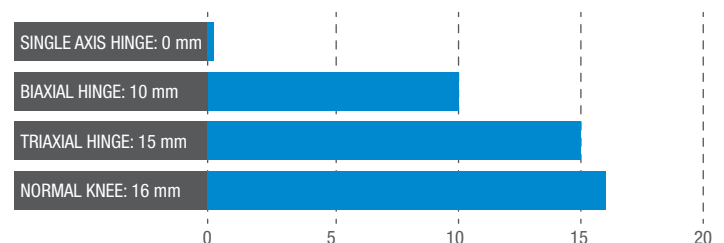

TRIAXIAL HINGE

The instant center is always posterior of the central axis and reproduces the near-normal posterior pathway of the knee

HINGE BIOMECHANICS

Measurement in the posterior movement of the rotation center in all three types of hinges available are compared to that of a normal knee. Only Mueller's Triaxial Hinge properly tracks the joint.

MILLIMETERS OF POSTERIOR MOVEMENT FROM 0° TO 120° OF FLEXION

THINGS TO CONSIDER WHEN CHOOSING A KNEE BRACE

1 WHAT TYPE OF KNEE BRACE DO I NEED?

Knee braces can be categorized into five types: hinges, stabilizers/braces, supports, sleeves and straps. Hinged knee braces contain hinges which allow the knee to move in a way that is close to the knee's natural motion for the most advanced support, while knee stabilizers/braces contain metal springs on both sides of the knee for advanced support. Knee supports can be adjustable and often wrap around the knee; both provide basic support along with warmth and compression, while knee sleeves are sized and can be slipped on over the knee. Basic knee straps can be used to help relieve various knee pains.

2 WHAT STYLE OF KNEE BRACE DO I WANT?

There are two basic styles of knee braces: slip on and wraparound. Slip on braces are slid onto the knee by placing your foot through the brace's opening and pulling up. This type of brace is sized, as the ideal fit is necessary for proper support. Wraparound knee braces can be placed either in front of or behind the knee, depending on the type, and adjusted with the brace's Velcro straps.

3 DO I WANT A KNEE BRACE WITH A CLOSED OR OPEN PATELLA?

Knee braces are made with a closed patella for those who want their knee cap to receive the same compression and support provided to the rest of the knee. Open patella knee braces allow for any pressure on the knee cap to be relieved, and depending on the particular knee brace, may also allow for additional support and/or proper tracking and movement of the knee cap.

4 WHAT SIZE DO I NEED?

What size of knee brace you will require will depend on which brace you choose. Each brace will tell you what measurements are necessary for a proper fit, as some require a measurement around the knee, others three inches above/below the knee, and still others a calf and thigh measurement. Regardless, those measurements in inches or centimeters can be compared with a sizing chart for your knee brace to determine your proper size. If you find yourself to be between sizes, it is often recommended to purchase the larger of the two.

HINGED KNEE BRACES

This type of brace is designed to decrease knee pain and provide stability. They come with hinges that provide sideways stability. A hinged knee brace will keep a knee from bending back too far. With this type of brace, a person is able to determine how much their knee will bend and straighten. Hinged knee braces are able to provide a person with the maximum protection and support.

KNEE STABILIZERS & BRACES

Knee Stabilizers & Braces use supportive metal springs on both sides of the knee to help keep it supported but still allowing the joint to move normally. This type of brace is best used for stiff, sore, or floating knees.

KNEE SUPPORTS

Knee Supports provide support to the knee without interfering with natural range of motion or immobilize the joint. The level of support is different based on the features present in the support. Some are a basic slide on design that provides comfortable compression while others have adjustable straps for a more customized compression.

KNEE SLEEVES

Knee sleeves are not the same as knee braces. Knee sleeves provide some support to the knee, but do not hinder its natural range of motion or immobilize the joint in any way. This makes knee sleeves unsuitable for providing support after a knee injury or surgery, but rather they are designed to protect the knee from future injury or risk of further damage to an injured area. This protection is particularly important for athletes that put their knees under pressure every day in activities like running, jumping, or weightlifting.

Knee sleeves also add a valuable compression element which increases blood flow to the area and reduces pain both during and after a workout as well as any post-workout swelling. The neoprene material that knee sleeves are made of make knee sleeves an excellent option to wear post-injury as they provide some support but still allow the knee to strengthen naturally.

KNEE STRAPS

Knee straps are designed to compress the tendons surrounding the knee and help redistribute the tension. There is also some evidence that knee straps can be used to keep tendons properly aligned. Knee straps can be worn above or below the knee, depending on the knee injuries plaguing the athlete.

ELBOW BRACES & SUPPORTS

The elbow is a hinge joint that connects the large bone of the upper arm to the two bones of the forearm. An elbow moves in flexion and extension and is also impacted by the movements of the forearm. The elbow is supported by ligaments on each side. It is susceptible to injury because of the stresses naturally placed upon the joint with activities like throwing or pitching a baseball. The muscles that cross the elbow and act upon the wrist, play a key role in some common elbow injuries.

Overuse of muscles on either side of the elbow can result in injury commonly referred to as golfer's and tennis elbow. The elbow is also home to a bursa, called the olecranon bursa that sits on the bony point of the elbow. When this bursa is contused it can swell significantly.

If you need a support for golfer's elbow, tennis elbow or protection for your elbow, there are options to provide a comfortable fit.

ANYTHING THAT CAN GO WRONG WITH ANY OTHER JOINT CAN GO WRONG WITH THE WRIST

- 1 A fall and other direct trauma, can result in sprains (injuries to the ligaments), strains (injuries to the muscles and tendons) and dislocation of the wrist.
- 2 Repetitive motion, as may be found in factory work, keyboarding or any other activity involving long stretches of repetitive motion can result in carpal tunnel syndrome. Carpal tunnel syndrome occurs when the passage through which the nerves and blood supply pass is no longer large enough. This can happen because the nerves and tissues in this very small passageway swell due to repeated stress.
- 3 Old injuries, disease process or just time, can cause arthritis of the wrist.

Fortunately, most injuries to the wrist can be treated conservatively (non-operatively), with rest, ice, anti-inflammatories and bracing. A brace or support will help take the strain off of your injured wrist.

BACK BRACES & SUPPORTS

BACK BRACES ARE EXTREMELY USEFUL FOR TWO GROUPS OF PEOPLE:

- 1 Those who, due to injury or disease, cannot maintain proper posture for sufficiently long periods of time to allow the safe performance of certain activities.
- 2 Those who are hoping to avoid injury or re-injury during certain activities.

Braces can range from rigid to soft and flexible. Back braces provide less support as they become more flexible, but a brace that allows for some flexion is a better choice than a completely stiff brace for athletes recovering from a minor back injury, or for individuals engaging in a risky activity (such as lifting heavy weights) who are hoping to avoid injury.

Physical therapists usually suggest use of back braces only during particular activities, and often suggest the user engage in concurrent physical therapy in order to strengthen the back with the eventual goal of not needing the back brace for any activity.

OTHER THINGS TO CONSIDER WHEN CHOOSING A BACK BRACE

- 1 The bulkiness of the brace and whether it is intended to be worn under or over clothing.
- 2 The breathability of materials. The materials and thickness of the brace could result in less breathability making it warm to wear.
- 3 If you are planning on wearing during intense physical activity, understanding how the brace needs to be cleaned is important.

SIZING CHARTS - HOW TO MEASURE

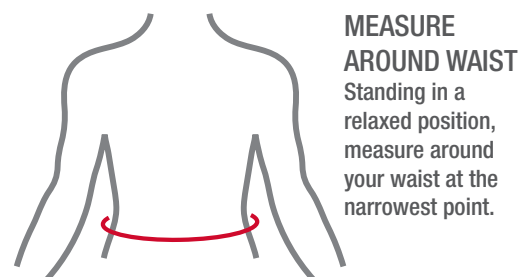

Wearing the proper size of a brace is very important for recovery or prevention of injuries. Using the incorrect size may increase your chances of an injury or re-injury. Follow the proper sizing techniques and the corresponding sizing charts on the next pages to help you find the proper fitting brace.
